Genealogy for Beginners

Part 1 – An introductory class gets beginners started on researching their family history. Participants are introduced to genealogy basics and a 5-Step Research Model to guide genealogical research. Vital records are illustrated to demonstrate how to mine documents for genealogical information.

November 17

Genealogy for Beginners

Part 2 – The Part II class goes beyond vital records to cover census, military, social security and immigration records. Each record set is discussed and illustrated for its genealogical value. Special attention is given to the 1940 U.S. Federal Census.

December 1

Passing Down Your Family History

Participants are provided recommendations for saving, preserving and sharing family records, photographs, and other precious mementos for generations to come. This class is particularly useful for Seniors who want to prepare their family collection to pass on to others. (Note: This class focuses strictly on helping participants know what to do with what they already have in their possession, not on advancing family history research.)
